Windy Craggy Project Mine Development

020376

Geddes Resources Limited has defined a major reserve of copper and other by-product minerals on its Windy Craggy property in northwestern British Columbia. The Company has completed conceptual engineering for the development of a major, long-life mine. Environmental studies have been carried out to determine the present environmental conditions and to plan a course of construction and operation of the mining complex so as to minimize the impact on the environment.

The environmental information has been compiled into a five-volume Stage I Environmental and Socioeconomic Impact Assessment Report which has been delivered to the Mine Development Steering Committee of the British Columbia Government. This report will be reviewed by the Committee as a part of the Mine Development Review Process. The report has also been distributed to all interested government agencies in British Columbia, Yukon, Alaska and the Federal Governments in Canada and the United States.

Copies of the report have also been placed in Public Libraries at: Fort St. John, Haines, Juneau, Kamloops, Prince George, Skagway, Smithers, Terrace, Vancouver (Main Branch), University of British Columbia and Simon Fraser University Libraries, Victoria and Whitehorse.

The public is encouraged to review this report to inform themselves of the importance and scope of the project.

To provide a further opportunity for interested persons to gain an understanding of the project, Geddes Resources Limited plans a series of public meetings at locations in areas where sufficient interest is expressed. You are urged to return the form below indicating your interest in the project.
