A black and white photograph of a rock specimen, possibly a sedimentary or metamorphic rock, showing a complex, layered, and fractured texture. The rock is oriented vertically and is set against a solid black background. A small white scale bar is positioned near the bottom center of the rock, with the text "1 cm" printed on it. The rock's surface is uneven, with various shades of gray and some darker spots, indicating different mineral compositions or textures. The overall appearance is that of a natural, unpolished rock sample.
