Dear Tom,

I have included a photograph from the Driftpile Creek property which may be useful to you, which shows the barite "kill zone" on surface, along with some of the drill sites and access trails. The photo is looking towards the southeast. I also have a second photograph which looks east from the valley bottom and shows the drill rig in the middle distance, with the barite "kill zone" in the background. Unfortunately, I don't have a copy to send to you right now. Both photos are currently out to have slides made, which won't be ready for approximately two weeks. I'll send a copy of this other photo as soon as I obtain one.

I hope these photos will be of help to you, they are the best I have.

Randy,

*Thanks very much.
Any chance of getting a copy of the slides,
or borrowing to make copies?*

Tom

Sincerely,

Randy Farmer
