Tom just got off the phone again... this time with Western Canadian's geo David Lortie

Hermann project just about to start! They'll be drilling on Dec 20th, will break for 4-5 days over xmas, then start again on the 28th!!! and continue drilling well into January. What a schedule... anyway estimate for calendar 2004 metrage is 600-700 of rotary drilling, and budget of $60,000 to $70,000

Kennecott drilled two 900+ foot holes on Goodrich, did down hole geophysics then went south for a long Xmas break... I expect that they'll resume in Jan of Early Feb. I'll still consider it a major project with a $100,000 budget (although I can't confirm it--its a guess)

It's becoming very awkward with these late season (what season!) programs and trying to compile data from a given project that straddles the year-end. Oh well just do the best we can with estimates, I guess.

Bob.
