SURF INLET WORK BEGINS - Donald Moore, president, reports Rupert Resources Ltd. & underground crews have been mobilized to the Surf Inlet Gold project about 100 miles south of Prince Rupert, on the northwest coast of B.C. Rupert now holds a 100% interest in the Surf Inlet property following notification by NDT Ventures that the property does not fit with NDT's corporate focus on base metal exploration in the Voisey Bay area. The Surf Inlet mine produced over 400,000 ounces during its production years between 1917 and 1928.

Attempts to re-open the mine in the early 1940's were thwarted by lack of manpower due to the war effort. However, operators did drill two holes from the underground workings which encountered grades and rock types typical of the main Surf deposit in ground that has not otherwise been explored. Rupert will follow up on this compelling target with an underground drill program which is expected to get underway once underground access has been completed. About 2,700 feet of underground workings will be rehabilitated, including new drifts to by-pass old stopes. On completion of this stage of the program, crosscuts and drill stations will be established for the underground drill program. (SEE GCNL
