I attempted to contact Joe Nansen by telephone yesterday at the Seagate Hotel in Port Hardy and, while he is there, he has not returned the call.

From my past experience with this diminutive, neanderthall-type, I do not think it necessary to go to Port Hardy to examine this property.

I enclose a sketch showing the probable location of Nansen's find, with respect to the Little Joe and Suzanne claims which Williamson and I examined in 1961. There was nothing on either of these two groups which justified further work.

In the main, when someone like Nansen or, for that matter - his partner, finds it necessary to try to sell a B. C. property in Toronto, there is something wrong with it. I know that Nansen has sufficient contacts here that there is no need for him to go to Toronto if he has something worthwhile.
